Garden Cut is an SQF certified facility which undergoes annual certification audits and unannounced regulatory inspections. We have a fully-documented food safety program that minimizes the potential of contamination to occur during receiving, storage, processing, and shipment of products.

Proper control of product temperature is the most important factor affecting fresh cut produce quality. Cold Chain is continuously managed from our facility to yours with refrigerated trailers.

Contact your sales representative to find out how the move to precut produce can enhance safety and reduce costs of your food operation.

Our production process:

- Raw goods are placed on prep line for topping, tailing, and coring.
- After prep, product travels into the dicing/slicing machine.
- Cut product is washed, cleaned and exits into spinner baskets for drying.
- Dry product is dropped onto packing table for bagging and sealing.
- Product is checked through the metal detector and then dated, packaged, labeled and placed onto pallet.
